Lloyd Terrace Thanksgiving Menu: Turkey—with Bingo Trimmings

*Over the river and through the woods
To Grandmother's house
we go*

No, it's not quite that way. Grandma and Grandpa gave up the old farm a long time ago; that new six-lane bridge over the river and the Interstate through the woods, and besides there's no money in pumpkins any more.

So now they have a tidy little apartment — one or two bedrooms and an efficiency kitchen no bigger than a gablet. In fact, they may well be living in Princeton's Lloyd Terrace on Harrison Street. Thanksgiving will be a quiet day at home.

Perhaps a son or daughter will telephone from two thousand miles away, and maybe a Princeton family will invite them to share a turkey, although when you get along in years, your appetite isn't quite what it used to be . . .

In any case, at Lloyd Terrace the Thanksgiving holiday begins, not with turkey, but with Bingo. This Tuesday's Thanksgiving party was scheduled a long time ago as Bingo Night, one of three or four Bingo parties given for Lloyd Terrace each year by Princeton's Methodist Church. Bingo, because that's what they enjoy most at Lloyd Terrace.

Prizes for everyone — cosmetics, books, stationery, a little vase bright with hittersweet vine, a bowl of pine-cones and greens. Yes, most of the Bingo players are women. A few couples will come but the single men, who live alone, usually stay away.

"We have prizes for everyone because so many Lloyd Terrace residents look forward for weeks to these Bingo parties," explains Mrs. Ruth Shaw, who is Bingo lady for the Methodists. ("I take a lot of ribbing about that — a Methodist running a Bingo game!")

Lucky ones are allowed to continue playing, but they are asked, please not to call out if luck strikes again. Some players may even get two or three prizes, but Mrs. Shaw wants to be sure each player wins at least one.

Lloyd Terrace is the Princeton

Borough Housing Authority's project for the elderly. There is a Community Room and parties are always held there because it is frequently difficult for residents to get around town easily, even if somebody picks them up in a car for the drive to the Methodist Church.

Older residents in the Authority's Clay Street project are also welcome — Bingo night, or just an ordinary social evening.

"God's Senior Saints," is the way young Olive Haynes refers to these eager, senior Bingo players. Olive, a senior at Princeton Theological Seminary, visits Lloyd once or twice each week, more if someone is sick. She works with the Princeton Methodist Church group, making all the plans for entertaining the 20-30 Lloyd residents who come each time for the Bingo.

For Halloween the Methodist young people came, and 12-year-

Two Vacancies Definite on '73 School Board

Two of the three school board members whose terms expire this year aren't going to run again—definitely.

"No," said Henry Powsner and Mrs. Evelyn Geddes this week. Dr. Robert Bierman, board president and the third incumbent, said he hadn't completely made up his mind, and would probably announce his decision after Thanksgiving.

Both Dr. Powsner and Mrs. Geddes are Borough representatives. Dr. Bierman is from the Township. All three are identified with what is sometimes called the "liberal" side of the school board, generally supportive of Superintendent Philip E. McPherson.

be a candidate. She said this week that she, too, might have a statement after Thanksgiving. She is a Borough resident, and is usually labelled anti-McPherson.

Deadline for filing applications for the school board election is Wednesday, December 27, at 4 p.m. at the Stony Brook Administration Building, Stockton Street.

This Is

Brook Administration Building, Stockton Street.

Battle Looms. Meanwhile, as the deadline and the February election draw near, the battle-smoke begins to rise again for politicking on school issues in TERMS TO END: Neither Mrs. Evelyn Geddes or Dr. Henry Powsner will seek re-election next year to the Regional School Board. Both are representatives of the Borough.

Princeton, as in many other communities, is so laden with Byzantine intrigue that municipal elections seem like gentle pastorals in comparison.

Last week, the anti-McPherson Parents of Princeton School Children ran an advertisement in TOWN TOPICS purporting to show what the new administrative structure of the system will be.

None of the alleged changes has been announced publicly. Questioned about the advertisement's statements, Dr. McPherson said that administrative reorganization is still in the developmental stage, and proposals of various kinds are still "under consideration."

At a full staff meeting on November 8, the superintendent said, faculty and staff were given a status report on plans for staffing during the next academic year. The meeting was held, the superintendent explained, so that staff would be involved in the planning process from its early stages.

The next day, principals met with their faculties and then with Dr. McPherson to report on each faculty meeting. Also, Dr. McPherson, Wesley Johnson, assistant superintendent, William Box, president of the Princeton Regional Teachers' Association, and Robert Parson, vice-president of the PREA, met together to talk about staff planning.

A work session was held last Tuesday, the superintendent said, with PREA officers and building representatives. At meetings such as this, the superintendent explained, problems like certification, salaries and so on, will be examined in detail probably until March.

Who's the Pipeline? The November 8 full faculty meeting was not an open public meeting, the superintendent said, but neither were staff members asked to keep the discussion confidential. Asked how information under consideration was leaked to Parents of Princeton School Children, the superintendent said he thought he knew, but declined to be more specific. He said that one staff member was known only to the nine members of the board and himself.

A statement from Eugene B. Brier, president of the Princeton Administration Association, appears on page 18. In it, Mr. Brier described the proposals in the advertisement as a "distortion" of ideas presented by Dr. McPherson for staff organization.

CLOTHING SHOP ROBBERY

Of $2,000 in Merchandise. Some $2,000 worth of clothing, including 50 pullover sweaters, 100 pair of trousers and 20 jackets, were stolen last week from the Warehouse, 360 Nassau Street.

Mrs. Benjamin Judah, the owner, told Borough police that the theft took place between 5:15 p.m. and 10:20 Wednesday morning, when she discovered it. According to Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli, who investigated, a window on the east side of the building had been broken to gain entry.

TV Set Stolen. A television set valued at $315 was stolen between 11 and 3:30 Friday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Boone, 31 Greenhouse Drive. Police report entry was made through an unlocked door and that nothing else was taken.

Miss Evangeline Miller called Township police Friday evening to report that someone might be inside the Princeton Nursery School at 78 Leigh Avenue. She reported finding an unlocked kitchen window at the rear of the school and the screen ajar.

Ptl. John Hammond responded to her midnight call and checked the entire building with negative results.

ELDERLY MAN MUGGED

On North Harrison St. David Donald of Lloyd Terrace was mugged and robbed Friday night around 10:30 as he was walking on North Harrison Street.

Police report that the victim, in his 60s, was approached by two men. One threw a coat over his head and knocked Mr. Donald to the ground. Police said that he was not injured but his wallet was rifled and $60 taken.

FACES COURT BEARING

For Shoplifting. John Miller, 19, 7 Lytle Street, surrendered himself at Borough police headquarters last week, after he learned that police had a warrant for his arrest, charging him with shoplifting two pair of trousers the week before from the Country Squire, 20 Nassau Street.

He was later released in $250 bail to await a court hearing December 6. Det. Timothy Huizing conducted the investigation.

SEMINAR SCHEDULED

By Borough Police. The Borough Police Department will sponsor another one of its Police-Community Relations Seminars in Borough Hall Monday through Wednesday.

Held twice a year, the seminars are conducted by the police in co-operation with the N.J. State Commission on Civil Rights. Attending will be members of the Borough, Township, and West Windsor police departments and prosecutors from the Princeton University Security department. This is the third year for the seminars.

"It does a couple of things," said Chief Michael Carnevale. "It makes law enforcement people conscious of the plight of minority groups and sensitive to the needs of the community. I feel if they really know the other side—what motivates minority groups—then they will be able to deal better with overall problems. I really feel they are worthwhile or we wouldn't do it," he said.

The seminars, Chief Carnevale continued, were only part of the overall program of community relations—"something we have to do on a daily basis, 24 hours a day."

Chief Carnevale reported that, in addition, he meets with each squad once a week. "It's an excellent way for me to relate community problems to the men—if there are community problems—and feelings about sensitive issues in the community."

"This is very important," he added, "because so many of our officers now live outside the community. This is one way that I have to make them aware of what's happening in Princeton so they can cope with day to day problems in a professional manner."

Hunters' Club Wins Delay on Firearms Ban

Hunters who belong to the Antlers Club have obtained a temporary court order which prevents the Township from enforcing against them its new firearms ban.

The restraining order, filed Friday in Superior Court, law division, applies only to members of the Antlers. Hunters who don't belong to the club are still subject to the new ordinance, which prohibits the discharge of firearms anywhere in the Township.

Committee was scheduled to decide in executive session Monday night what course of action to take.

New Member. Sanford Reynolds was sworn in as Township Committee member, replacing James A. Floyd, who resigned when he moved from Princeton. Mayor John D. Wallace announced Mr. Reynolds' appointment last week.

Committee voted in the Republican Mr. Reynolds, but Democrat Jay Bleiman abstained in the vote. From the audience, Elaine Schumann, 360 Jefferson Road, an active Township Democrat, said the appointment was "disappointing."

She added, "It's hard to understand why someone from other segments of the community wasn't named to replace Mr. Floyd."

A visitor from the Borough, Councilman Martin P. Lombardo, also chided Committee, declaring that Mr. Floyd, as a black, had brought a needed minority viewpoint. He also suggested that election results gave a mandate which Mayor Wallace had not heeded in naming a Republican.

Committeeman Barbara Smoyer protested that race was not a factor in the appointment, and she said Mr.

Reynolds had worked with many kinds of people in the community.

After Mayor Wallace remarked that no Democrats on Committee, Mr. Floyd included, had ever said the new appointment should be black, Mr. Bleiman said, "I'd be distressed if anyone felt I could not represent the interests of the black community. Mr. Floyd himself would feel that the person is more important than skin color."

IDA. In letters to the Citizens in Search of Peace and to Dr. Richard A. Leibler, head of the

TOPICS Of The Town

Institute for Defense Analyses, Committee has stated that a public hearing at this time on plans for IDA to build in the Township would serve no purpose.

The Citizens, whose spokesman is Mrs. Goulah Abrahams, want to keep IDA from moving into the Township. They have obtained 1,846 signatures on a protesting petition.

Both Mrs. Abrahams and Steve Slaby told Committee there are "compelling legal and moral reasons for holding the public hearing." Committee and its attorney, Gordon Griffin, unanimously believe there is no legal basis for denying IDA permission to build in the Office Research zone, where it proposes to erect its new quarters.

Mr. Slaby warned that his group is prepared for court action if necessary to try to stop IDA. He charged that this division of IDA, devoted to Communications Research, is a "threat to civil liberties," possibly doing research on data banks and sophisticated wiretapping and eavesdropping devices.

He and Mrs. Abrahams expressed alarm over the fact that Dr. Leibler has obtained the petition and all its names. Mayor Wallace explained that such documents are public record.

So far, Mayor Wallace explained, IDA hasn't submitted to the Regional Planning Board its final plans nor has it applied for a building permit.

Ordinarily, Mr. Griffin warned, the building inspector doesn't inform Committee when building permits are granted; however, Mayor Wallace promised to ask the building officer, W.J. Shinn, to notify Committee when IDA applies for the permit.

Mr. Bleiman emphasized that there is no point in a hearing "at this time," implying that a hearing might be scheduled at a time Committee regards as appropriate. Mrs. Smoyer expressed fear that a public hearing would only be a divisive factor in the community.

Traffic experts in the state's Department of Transportation have rejected, for the moment, plans to re-work the Harrison-Valley intersection, reported Traffic Sgt. Anthony Nini. "Hamilton Township is supposed to have a worse section," he told Committee.

He said, however, that the vice-president of Travers Associates, the organization doing TOPICS traffic surveys, is optimistic about a traffic light at Valley-Harrison by spring or summer. The $41,000 project would also have a narrowed island for left turn stacking, he said.

The Township's most dangerous intersection is still Ewing State Road, he reported. State officials have, at Sgt. Nini's request, looked over the intersection, promising to work on drainage from underground springs that causes wet and then ice, in cold weather.

A diagram of proposed changes inside the Princeton Shopping Center was explained by Sgt. Nini. It involves a shuffling of parking stalls, one-way flow and stricter no-parking regulations. If Committee passes ordinances adopting the plan, Township police can then, for the first time, enforce smoother traffic in the Center.

When Mr. Slaby asked "Who's paying for all this engineering work involving a private corporation?" Mayor Wallace conceded that the Township itself had blocked out this particular plan, but he assured Mr. Slaby that the Center, and possibly its merchants, would be billed for the $11,000 worth of work.

Goodbye. Without much in the way of a tear, the Township's own Planning Board went out of existence at 8:52 Monday night. Committee had just tied up the revised ordinance, and that revision was the board's only reason for existence.

In that final action, Committee left the west side of Witherspoon in the business zone, and provided that people seeking a new variance must go first to the Planning Board, then to the Zoning Board. The amendment relates to the Edward Kopp housing case, which the Planning Board wishes it had seen first. The Zoning Board has recommended that Mr. Kopp get his variance. The Planning Board opposed the recommendation.

William Sutphin, Planning Board member since 1966, said he thought it was a fine board. "I include my predecessors," he added, in some embarrassment. "It is without a peer in New Jersey. In level of competence," he declared. He is a lawyer who often appears before various planning bodies.

Mr. Hofman, who quotes Shakespeare now and again, made up one of his own to mark the Planning Board's departure: "I thee shed," he intoned.

Packaging. Committeeman Sinyer said she'd be glad to take to the Township Board of Health a request from Borough Councilman Robert Hendry for an ordinance requiring see-through packaging of fresh meats and poultry.

Borough Council hopes to introduce such an ordinance soon, Mr. Hendry told Committee, in the interests of consumer protection. Lawrence Township's ordinance has been upheld in the courts, he said.

Mr. Lombardo outlined in detail the proposals he has before Borough Council providing for broader choices in appointing people to various boards, and asked the Township to follow along.

He drew Committeeman Dean Chace's ire when he criticized Township appointments as linked to political parties. "We do not make political appointments, and we don't need you here to lecture us on the way we do things," Mr. Chace snapped. "We do them a lot better than you do in the Borough!"

Mr. Lombardo retorted by reminding Mr. Chace of the appointment of Mr. Reynolds, a Republican, to fill the place of a Democrat on Committee. Mayor Wallace said the Township is considering placing ads in local papers when vacancies exist on boards.

WOMAN IS VICTIM

Of Flim-Flam. A Township resident was flim-flamed of a sizeable sum of money Friday by two well-dressed women—the first such successful operation in the Township in some time.

The flim-flam began around 3 p.m. in the Princeton Shopping Center and culminated some three hours later when the victim notified the police. Police described one of the two perpetrators as 5'7" to 5'8" and very attractive. The other was described as about 5'4". Both were 29 to 30 years old and very well-dressed police said.

Police said the victim, also a woman, was middle-aged and intelligent. The Township detective bureau is continuing the investigation.

Police gave this account:

The victim was approached by a well-spoken woman who claimed she had found $38,000 in $1,000 bills in an envelope. She wanted to cut the victim in on it as she didn't think it was right to keep it all herself. The second accomplice then approached and joined the conversation.

Still pretending not to know what to do, the two took their victim to a friend, supposedly a stock dealer who told them it was all right to keep the money since it was illegitimate money. He offered to change the $1,000 bills into smaller denominations so the three could split it more easily.

Negotiations continued back and forth for some time, during which the victim withdrew a sum of money from her bank. The three met again and the victim turned over her "good faith" money. She was supposed to collect her share about 15 minutes later, police said. When the 15 minutes were up, the victim, unable to find the other two, called the police.

"She still couldn't believe, however, that she had duped, one of the officers commented. "Let me go back and look for these girls," she said. "Ma'am, you're not going to find them, they're gone," said one of the officers.

WOMAN IS BURNED

In Mattress Fire, Princeton's second mattress fire in two weeks Thursday resulted in multiple third degree burns to Mrs. Jacqueline Dunning, 59, 260 Hawthorne Avenue.

Mrs. Dunning was rushed by ambulance to the Princeton Medical Center in critical condition. Her condition was described on Monday by a hospital spokesman as still critical.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Arthur Jackson responded to a 4:41 a.m. call and requested aid from the fire department. Firemen dragged the burning mattress from the one story, two bedroom home to the back yard.

One fireman on the scene reported that the fire had burned through to the box spring and charred both ends of the bed. "When it gets to the box spring you've got one helluva fire," he said.

Police said that Mrs. Dunning, who lives with her husband, John, had been smoking in bed. Mr. Dunning escaped injury.

SHOPLIFTING CONTINUES

At Bamberger's. Shoplifting at Bamberger's, especially by teenagers, continues at Ramberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center. Three more were apprehended last week.

Two Princeton girls, age 15 and 17, were arrested by Mrs. Constance Ware of the store's security department, after she observed the two allegedly taking a $13 sweater. Earlier, a 17-year-old East Windsor Township youth was nabbed by William Turk of the security department for allegedly taking a pair of trousers valued at $8. All were turned over to the Princeton Township juvenile officer, Anthony Pinali and later released to their parents.

Girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dallas, 131-J Northgate Apartments, Cranbury, November 12; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Abelson, 201 N. News Of The THEATRES

FROM ALL AROUND

To Be In "Oklahoma"! The P.J. & B. annual musical has always drawn its cast from miles around, but this year is hunkering down deeper in the Princeton community itself. 42 University students are in the cast, both as principals and chorus.

"Oklahoma!" will be given four times, starting with an opening night Thursday, December 7 and continuing Friday and Saturday with a family matinee Saturday afternoon. The place, of course, is McCarter.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein show will have a cast not of thousands, but of 110 which is proportionately pretty big, considering the size of the Princeton area. Milton Lyon, directing once again, is working with Lowell Aheizer who is designing sets and lights and Elizabeth Covey, who is the costume designer.

Songs from "Oklahoma!", in case somebody doesn't know, include "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top," "People Will Say We're in Love," "Many a New Day" and the title song.

WARHOL

A Rated, "Women in Revolt," the Andy Warhol film will be shown next Tuesday at 11 p.m. on the Movies at McCarter series. It is an X rated film, and nobody under 17 will be admitted.

The three heroines — if that's the word — of this film are all played by female impersonators, who go from one disaster to another in their desperate attempts to get away from men. Hilarious dialogue and soap-opera situations have given the film a "comedy" label. Audiences will have to decide whether "Women in Revolt" satirizes women's lib, or endorses it.

"THE WRONG BOX"

Film Comedy Here, The British comedy, "The Wrong Box" will be shown four times this weekend at Murray Theatre under the sponsorship of Theatre Intimé.

Stars are Ralph Richardson, Peter Sellers and Michael Caine. Intimé has scheduled the film for this Friday and Saturday, at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. each night. Admission, at the door, is $1.

COME AND GO...

McKendree Spring Canceled. Refunds are available at the McCarter box office for the McKendree Spring concert which had been scheduled for this Saturday.

The Harry Chapin concert, originally announced for December 2, has been postponed to a later date. All tickets will be honored on the new date, which will be announced shortly.

Standing room and obstructed view seats only, remain at the McCarter Theatre box office for the Alexander Hall appearance of the New Riders of the Purple Sage. They will appear Monday, December 11 at 8 p.m.

FOR KIDS

At McCarter, "My Side of the Mountain," an award-winner from the 1960s, will be McCarter's treat for the young this Friday at 11 a.m. (Tickets, $1, at the door from 10 a.m.)

In "My Side of the Mountain," 13-year-old Sam runs away from home, equipped with only a microscope, a survival kit and his pet raccoon. He wants to prove he can live off the land for a year.

He captures and tames a wild falcon and encounters a wandering folk singer (Theodore Bikel), who stumbles into Sam's camp and remains to teach Sam word and nature lore. Sam keeps a diary, and his entries show how he grows from a frightened and resourceless child.

FOUR AT WILSON

By Wilson College Theatre. University students affiliated with the Wilson College Theatre group will give four plays next weekend in the theatre of Wilcox Dining Hall.

The plays will be presented Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 1, 2 and 3 at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited and there is no admission, although members of the group will ask for contributions.

On the four-sided program will be "Dr. Kheal," by Mana Irene Fornes; "The Seeing-Eye Dog with an Eye for Women," by Jim Magnuson; "Chicago," by Sam Shepard and "George Washington Crossing the Delaware" by Kenneth Koch.

Mr. Magnuson will direct all the plays except "Chicago," which is under the guidance of Richard Knapp of the University's English faculty. Mr. Magnuson is the resident playwright at the University, holding the Hodder Fellowship. Normally, the Fellowship is awarded for one year only, but the University has twice renewed Mr. Magnuson's award and he is now in his third year.

RECITAL TUESDAY
By PHS Alumna Contralto Jane Young Sharaf, who joined the Westminster faculty this year as an instructor of voice, will present a Faculty Recital in the Westminster Choir College Playhouse on Tuesday at 8 p.m. Mrs. Sharaf will be accompanied by another faculty member, Diane Blystra.

Mrs. Sharaf is a 1959 graduate of Princeton High School, and holds both the Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from the University of Illinois. Prior to joining the Westminster faculty, she was an assistant professor of music at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Sharaf's program will include works by Handel, Schumann, Richard Strauss and Poulenc, cantata no. 54 "Widerstehe doch der Sunde," by Bach, and three compositions by her husband, Frederic. This recital is open to the public without charge.

GARDEN

You'll Like My Mother (now playing) has been called by one critic "entertaining, Gothic black m." It's a thriller centering upon a pregnant young widow who arrives unannounced at her mother-in-law's mansion. Her reception is as cold as the snow outside.

There's someone else in the house, a tenant who has been hated violently in the past, and also the young woman's only ally, the strange Kath leen, whom her husband had never mentioned.

The cast features Patty Duke as the young widow, Francesca, Rosemary Murphy as her menacing mother-in-law, Stan Barbara Allen as Kathleen, abetted by a spooky mansion. It's the kind of soap opera that would fall of its own weight if Francesca had just picked up the phone.

PRINCE

Rage (now playing). A George C. Scott film from Warner Bros. The story concerns one man's revenge against the Army for the destruction of his land and the death of his son. (Not reviewed at press time.)

Fiddler on the Roof (now playing). The Broadway musical about Jewish life in Czarist Russian village is blown up high wide and handsome in the film version. Israeli actor Topol, with his rich singing voice, excels as Tevye the milkman who copes with poverty with the aid of a generous sense of humor, a few bogus quotes from the Scriptures and many conversations with God.

Set in Anatevka, a Jewish village concerned with poverty and much dependence on tradition (without it, life would be as shaky as a fiddler on the roof), the musical focuses on Tevye and the changes that come into his world.

There are some lovely sequences: the celebration of the Sabbath; Tevye's lyric soliloquy about becoming a rich man, a candlelit wedding ceremony and even an imaginatively staged nightmare scene. Of the cast, Topol is the most skilled. His Tevye is a rich, vital characterization; it is a joyous performance that carries the whole production.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

On Palmer Square, The Clothesline is a light with ideas for doting grandmothers, from Christmas bibs to party dresses to stuffed toys. The moppet-size robes (sizes 4 to 12, with a few smaller) feature a quilted blue nylon touched with white lace at the collar and again in two vertical lines leading to the hem.
White pearl buttons in two rows finish it off. ($11.50)

And to match mom's peignoir, a very feminine little gown and robe in softest pink; the gown is nylon and the robe is sheer, prettily touched quilted robe.

Just in are toddlers' smocked dresses in tiny prints, with deep hems, and quaint denim overalls patched here and there with plaid. Lined in red, and a matching red shirt.

Christmas dresses for little girls — red velvet with Irish lace (also deep blue velvet), red corduroy with a red ribbon threaded through the white lace at the throat and end of the small sleeve. Little brother dress-ups, in toddler sizes, includes a long-sleeved navy velvet suit offset by a white collar. There's also a red corduroy short-sleeved with an amusing gingham applique

Toys at The Clothesline are soft and plush, including a fabulous mouse with rickrack edging his patchwork lined ears. Big enough for a moment to sit on. Choose red or yellow velour.

There are clown rattle dolls to stuff in a sock; tiny pairs of red "TV booties" tied with white laces ($2.50); face nut-tens; wee ducks and puppies in colorful vinyl; furry koala bears in three sizes and with a particular charm of their own.

The Toy Carousel in Prince ton Shopping Center; next to the bakery, is a gold mine for genuinely child-oriented gifts.

There are turtles the size of a hassock; beautifully dressed dolls with lots of play value;
pre-school things from Europe that are unusual and well made; and games including some good, pre-school types that nobody else bothers to carry. The prices are low.

The Toy Carousel has the "banned list" for you to peruse. It's the list of toys that government inspectors have found unsafe to buy.
There is only one battery operated game in the shop, and we saw none of the television-advertised toys.

Figure about $3.50 and $4.95
for the standard sizes.

Allen's Children's Center, 134 Nassau Street, comes to the rescue of the new grandmother, with an assemblage of equipment. Miniature rockers and painted-sized upholstered chairs, some with music boxes hidden inside. (From $10). And toy boxes to cope with the scatter problem, and also to serve when empty as imaginary craft ($20).

A-a gates for doorways and for the top of the stairs, bedrails to keep small sleepers from rolling off big beds and car beds that convert to a bassinet. For a gift, there's 20% off the car seats, which meet Federal safety standards.

whole gamut of suggestions: clear lucite frames for snap shots and photographs. You can insert photo in an open lucite book ($9) or put eight small photos on a black swivel base.

For 13.00, who greets you a bit flushed from her exertions, a set of six demitasse spoons ($8) or jam dishes with the lids embellished with a slice of orange or a cluster of grapes. Or, from Bouthbay Harbor, the Andersen wildlife porcelains: a bluejay larger than life with two fledglings nearby; or the oval vase with a tranquil silhouette of birches ($14). The Andersen's a husband and wife team, use Maine feldspar, flint beach sand and marine clays in their interesting designs.

Christmas placemats in oval shapes have matching napkins. A table runner with a holly berries and green leaves design is about 16 inches wide and 72 inches long. And also for the table, full size cloths in a light, cheery red with a froth of fringe in two tones of moss green.

Ice buckets. There are some new designs to replace the Old Wooden Bucket - We noticed four at Cummins, and suppose we missed a few. A cutting board and cheese knife are tucked onto the top of a wood bucket for a space-saving idea for $18.00. Choose slim black and silver for a crowded serving area (great for a night table, too) $10; the elegant, clear lucite bucket helps you keep an eye on the supply of ice. The top is heavily weighted and the bucket is banded and knurled in gold ($25). For one armed bartenders, smoked chrome ice buckets with an easy open top. Just push the handle and the top lifts up.

Concert by Chamber Players in McCash Draws Small Audience

The Princeton University who regularly attend these Department of Music sponsors programs are among the more five chamber concerts at 10, cultivated perceivers of the art McCash Hall during the con- form of any critical audience; cert season. Music from Marl- in the country. And yet, when boro programs account for an evening of contemporary three of them. The other two music is programmed (such are usually devoted to con- as last Thursday night), the temporary or early music, or audience is low and those some lesser known but gifted who are there applaud each young artists who are pro- in a fashion respectfully if not vided with an opportunity to enthusiastically. Certain they did not respond with the same euphoria to the new works played by the Da Capo Chamber Players as the Mi- chamber audience accorded Alexander Scriabin in the previous Monday. It is the prob- lem of dealing with new work devotes of fine music. Those symptoms or outright rejection, but the problem must be dealt with and hopefully, soon.

The Da Capo Chamber Players presented a concert of mostly new works by John Harbison, a native Princetonian; David Noon, Elaine Barkin, John Heiss and Joan Tower. Arnold Schoenberg's "Kammersymphonie", Op. 9, in an arrangement by Webern, presented the "old chestnut" of the evening's fare, quite an irony, if one recalls the reception given the work at its premier.

The number of the Da Capo Chamber Players in attendance was small. But Allen Blustone, clarinet, Joel Lester, violin, Helen Harbison, violoncello; and Joan Tower, piano. Of the newer composers represented, this listener found Mr. Harbison's "Four Preludes" (from December Music) John Heiss's Quarter and Joan Tower's Hexachords for Flute to be of considerable excellence in conception, craft and feeling.

For the most part, the performances were sensitive realizations of the music. Mr. Buesten is a fine clarinetist. Mr. Lester's performance of David Noon's "Cadenza for Solo Violin" was quite fine. The music is highly idiomat- ical, pseudo Bartok and Pene- rocki of the Capriccio in other words, competently written but unimpressively eclectic.

Elaine Barkin's "Six Compositions for Piano" was ex- quisitely performed by Joan Tower. The work was per- formed twice, but despite Miss Tower's dedication to bringing out every nuance of the score, the music reflected too many of the composer, Arthur Berger's, structural mannerisms: the constant abrupt changes in expression, rhythm and motivic organiza- tion with strange entrances of triads, sixths and fourth chords seemed out of place in this musical idiom. Their ap- pearance may have been un- intentional, but they intruded, nevertheless.

The final work of the pro- gram, the Schoenberg Chamber Symphony, Op. 9, composed in 1916, was heard in an arrangement for Piano Quintet by Webern. Webern always strove for clarity in his music and in this setting, Schoenberg's early hybrid composition comes off as the brilliant post-Brahmsian work that it is. In the small orchestral original, it leans more toward the future, but in the quintet treat- ment it reflects the "Manheim School thru Brahms" chamber music tradition. The Da Capo Chamber players delivered a good solid reading, although the piano was too loud and the flute and cello tones were often lost in the sonorous mixture.

Princetonians Find Devastation in Wilkes-Barre Is Still Extreme

Five Princetonians and a friend from Washington, D.C., worked in flood-ravaged Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on a rainy Saturday this month.

"More water is one thing they don't need up there!" said a member gloomily on return. Divided into two teams, they cleaned the mud out of a widow's cellar, painted newly-renovated interiors, did some digging, scraping and spackling at two other houses.

"This was an investigative trip. We were not sure of the need," Mrs. Ruth Bortell of First Presbyterian Church's church and society committee reports.

"There's no question of the need!" she continues. "Particularly as people are reaching the point of discouragement as winter is closing in . . ."

Two cars went up from Princeton, leaving at 8 a.m. and returning between 6 and 7 p.m. They delivered nine cartons of books from Firestone Library to Wilkes College, which lost its entire book collection in the flood caused by tropical storm Agnes. They took kitchen utensils to the warehouse maintained by Wilkes-Barre's Inter-Faith Flood Recovery group.

Saturday's work crew included Mrs. Henry Broad, Miss Elizabeth Crawford, Herbert Davison, Mr. and Mrs.

Bruce Van Sant, and, from Washington, Mrs. William Schmidt, who joined in because this was something she wanted to do.

Car Crews. "What's really needed up there right now is the small group work crew," Mrs. Bortell notes. "As you go along the streets, you see neat piles of rubbish in front of the houses, but you have no idea of the devastation until you see inside! Empty rooms — no furniture, walls destroyed, mud . . ."

"We worked in a house where there was a 2-year-old and a 4-year-old, and no heat. Another house had just had the heat turned on the day before."

The Princeton group made its arrangements to work in Wilkes-Barre through Inter-Faith Flood Recovery. The two-months old group united the Wyoming Valley churches in the flood recovery effort, established a warehouse and is serving as a clearing house for volunteer groups.

Five months after the disaster, Wilkes-Barre is in various stages of reconstruction. "A lot of people are just baling up and not doing anything until spring," Mrs. Bortell reports. "That's why, at the moment, small work units are needed. Four or five carloads of volunteers would be assigned to four or five different places. The large groups of young people and adults will be needed next spring."

Present Needs. The Princeton group found that there's a need for skilled carpenters, electricians, plumbers, plasterers, painters. The need for non-skilled cleaning help is diminishing, but there is need for people to act as morale builders, showing concern.

They also report that the flood victims most pressing physical needs right now are decks and chests of drawers. Closets behind them come small and large appliances, ironing boards, unfitted sheets, clocks, radios, throw rugs, kitchen utensils, teapots, dishes, brooms, cordbooks and dictionaries, humidifiers, vaporizers, mittens, wool caps, scarves and boots (but other clothing articles are in good supply in the warehouse). Also paperback books for the library; quilts, slippers and bathrobes. All in good, usable condition.

Mrs. Bortell, who holds a job at the Institute for Advanced Study, observes, "It would be useful if Princeton could organize a central depot for these things that are so desperately needed and arrange to get them up there."

Morale Low. Far more subtle than the physical damage, she says, is the great discouragement. In the Inter-Faith Flood Recovery bulletin, William Walton writes,

"For a little while put yourself in the place of a 1972 flood victim . . . Somebody of your age — with your job — your problems — your hopes — your dreams. Since Agnes, all this has changed. Your job is gone, your health affected, your dreams washed out. You have a strange new home in a new HUD trailer park. The family Bible, the wedding pictures, the knick knacks are gone forever. The winter solstice is coming. How would you act?"

"Dear Friends, for some time we have been concerned that volunteers coming into this area might feel that their efforts were not appreciated. We have had reports back from volunteers that people here seemed rather unappre-ciative and in some cases rather hostile. It is extremely difficult for many people to understand the extreme emotional strain and frustration that is present in this area and is growing every day . . ."

The coming holiday season, for Christians and Jews alike, in Wilkes-Barre promises little. Those who would like to take a careful of volunteers to help out, give Inter-Faith Flood Recovery five days' notice. "It is very well organized. If you go, you are useful — provided that you tell them what you can do," Mrs. Bortell advises. "Call 717-825-7733, or write to Robert N. Hallett, director, Inter-Faith Flood Recovery, 140 E. Northampton Street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa."

"We were just exploring the need when we went," she muses. "It is tremendous."

Regional School Administrators Reply to Ad

To the Editor, Town Topics: Administrators of the Princeton Regional Schools feel compelled to respond to the advertisement that appeared in last week's Town Topics regarding alleged plans for administrative reorganization in our schools. I have been directed by the Princeton Regional Administrators Association to make the following statement:

Our group, in fact, is presently developing recommendations for administrative reorganization that we hope will be responsive to a variety of changing circumstances within the schools. In our eyes, this planning process represents responsible management.

The plan described in the ad does not correspond to the "intention" of any member of our group, nor do we understand it to represent the "intention" of the Superintendent. At best, the described plan is a gross distortion of the ideas that the Superintendent has presented for our consideration. Moreover, a cursory examination of the current administrative organization will show that the ad is in error.

The administration, and indeed the entire school community, welcomes responsible inquiry. Regardless of individual intentions or motives, inquiry that is irresponsible leads to "instability and confusion" within the school and the community at large. We value the contributions of an informed community and are concerned about the damaging effects of misinformation and distortion.

Once again, we urge members of our community to assess the sources and accuracy of information. Correct information is an essential basis for responsible participation in school affairs.

EUGENE BIRINGER

President
Princeton Regional Administrators
Association

(Editor's note: All 14 administrators in the school system belong to the PRAA. Not all members were present when the above letter was drafted in its final form, but according to Mr. Biringer, all 14 knew of the letter. He declined to say how many of the administrators present when the letter was approved, voted in favor of publishing it.)

"Intolerable Vilification"

To the Editor of Town Topics: As a staff member of the Princeton Regional Schools, I object strongly to the vilifying remarks made about the Coordinator of Staff Development in the November 16 "Parents for Princeton School Children" ad. It is intolerable that one's professional reputation should be attacked in so irreverent a manner, particularly since defense or rebuttal is so difficult. The possibility that any one of us can be subjected to such an arbitrary, anonymous attack cannot help but be damaging to staff morale.

As is true of the ad in general, the statements about Dr. Vieland are distortions of the truth. I respect Dr. Vieland as a talented, highly skilled colleague. She has been helpful to me and to many staff members, and she has made valuable contributions to the schools (including the Wednesday Program which was overwhelmingly re-approved by our staff a few weeks ago).

I object, too, to the constant harassment of the school administration. Our administrators are far more open to criticism, willing to consider and implement change, and supportive of professional growth, than those in other school systems with which I have been associated. It is fortunate that most parents recognize this, and, when criticism is called for, offer it in a constructive, appropriate manner.

Facts Twisted.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I was completely disgusted to read the page of misinterpreted and twisted "facts" published in the November 16 "Parents for Princeton School Children" ad. The ad, which was re-approved by our staff a few weeks ago, contains the following statement:

"This vocational group is unfortunately still altogether too much in evidence. One would have expected their absurd claims and hysterical ravings to have been stifled by the obvious success of such progressive programs as the Multi Age and Learning Community."

Rather, they have chosen to ignore this, and instead seize upon the Superintendent's proposed reorganization of the school system. Perhaps they would prefer that Dr. McPherson choose one fixed course and stand by it, come hell or high water.

The only way we can hope to solve any of the problems affecting our school system, and indeed our country, is to continually seek out and try new ways of dealing with the ever increasing crises.

If the Parents of Princeton School Children are so concerned about administrative restructuring, why don't they send a cable to their President (or, as it seems to be now, The President), demanding an immediate halt to his plans for reorganizing the Executive branch of our national government?

If any change is such cause for alarm, I would certainly imagine our regressive friends to be much more concerned about one affecting our entire nation, for the results of such top-level shifts can hardly be expected to benefit Public Education.

FLIGHT II NEEDS FUNDS Financial Problem Acute. Flight II, the Princeton youth organization with headquarters at 175 Nassau Street, reports that it is in dire financial trouble but that despite an acute shortage of funds, plans for old and new fall activities are being carried on. The statement continues:

"Our Drugs and Health and Community Services coordinators have become 'youth advocates' to many area programs. They are compiling a file on agencies and programs that might be of help to students, or in which students can volunteer their aid.

"During his four week stay at the shopping center, Santa II greeted children daily in the Sylvan Pools store. His hours will be from 10 to 5 on weekdays and 10 to 5 on Saturdays. Santa's annual visit here is sponsored by the Princeton Center Merchants Association.

CHILDREN CENTER SET

By High School Girls. The high school girls under the teaching supervision of Mrs. Nancy Arcamione with the aid of Mrs. Florence Rosenberg will start the Princeton High School Children's Center on January 20.

The hours will be 8:30 to 3:30 a.m. every Monday-Tuesday-Thursday, and Friday-Wednesday will be used for planning and evaluation with the high school girls. There will be no fee required for the children's participation.

The selection of applicant will be on the basis of a balanced cross section of children. This program is for the optimum teaching and learning experiences of the high school girls enrolled in the Child Care Careers Program. Mrs. Arcamione is now taking applications for children from three to five years old. Applications can be received by writing to Mrs. Arcamione, c/o The Child Care Careers Program, Princeton High School. All the applications should be returned to Mr. Arcamione by December 10.

An advisory committee consisting of members of the community has been formed to serve as consultants and liaison between the school and community for this program. It includes Mrs. Hannah Fox, Mrs. Edith Martin, Mrs. Rosa Brown, Mrs. Fay Streeter, Dr. Benjamin Silverman, Mr. Lester Barlow, Mr. Donald Ringkamp, Mrs. Allen Male, Mrs. Martha Edwards, Mr. Judith Bellmore, and Frank Sola.

Anyone seeking more information on the Princeton High School Children's Center should contact Mrs. Arcamione at Princeton High.

ALL ABOARD!

For Annual Train Show. The Piedmont Southern Railroad of Rocky Hill has expanded its South Annual Christmas Exhibition to include two weekends, Saturdays and Sundays December 2 and 3 and December 9 and 10. General admission show.

will be from Noon to 5 each day. Reserved performances, limited to 100 fare, will be given at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. on both Saturdays.

Proceeds from this event will benefit the Princeton Y Building Fund, The Rocky Hill Volunteer Fire Company, and the Rocky Hill First Aid and Emergency Squad. With the completion of the 1972 show, The Pacific Southern Railroad's gifts to various charities will exceed $10,000. The Pacific Southern Railroad is located in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Latham, Washington Street. The impressive 110 Model Lay out has been constructed by the Club's 21 members. While most members are from the greater Princeton Area, Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut are also represented.

The layout contains 1,000 feet of hand laid rail on individual ties, secured by over 200,000 miniature spikes. Included in the layout are 200 hand made wigs. Several new features have been incorporated to please the railroad's passengers at this year's show.

The equipment roster owned by the individual members includes 500 locomotives, 500 passenger cars, and 2,000 freight cars. The layout is by far the largest in New Jersey, and ranks among the nation's largest.

Fare for the show is $1.00. Children's fare $1.00. Reserved Shows are $1.00. Tickets may be purchased at the YMCA or at the Railroad Special Group showings may be arranged by calling 921-9276, or writing the Pacific Southern at Box 282, Rocky Hill, New Jersey 08533.

NEVER UNDERESTIMATE...
The Old Man Fathers' Day brought a scattering of friendly fathers to Princeton Day School last week. They went to classes with their offspring and, in one instance, achieved a moment of fame.

Alvin D. Williams of 10 Maple Street breezed into his daughter Marjorie's European history class and took Perry Jones

10 question quiz along with the students. He scored the highest mark, a boy in the class reported to Town Topics in some awe.

Here's the Jones Ten pointer. Mr. Williams missed Nos. 1 and 2. (The answers are on page 10.)

1. Name the 1771 treaty between Russia and Turkey.
2. Name the German philosopher-mathematician of the 17th Century.
3. Name the dynasty which ruled Prussia.
4. What is the Polish name for the Polish 17th Century aristocracy?
5. Name the parliamentary gimmick by which a Polish aristocrat could stall legislation.
6. What is the name used for a prime minister in the Turkish Ottoman empire?
7. Who is the patron saint of Hungary?
8. Which historic monument in Athens was destroyed in the 17th Century by Turkish munitions?
9. Name the instrument of succession by which Charles VI of Austria sought to ensure the succession of his holding to his daughter, Maria Theresa.
10. Give the German term for "Drive to the East."

University Names Youngest Full Professor

Charles L. Fefferman, described as the "outstanding mathematical analyst of his generation," whose research and teaching have won wide renown, returns to Princeton at age 23 as the youngest full professor in the University's 226-year history. He earned his Princeton Ph.D. at 20 and in 1971, at 22, was appointed a full Professor of Mathematics at The University of Chicago.

Dr. Fefferman's appointment to the Princeton Faculty is effective next September 1. Following a year's leave of absence without salary, he will assume his duties here with the opening of the academic year 1974-75.

A native of the Washington, D.C. area, he first became interested in mathematics in the fourth grade. "I was extremely interested in chemistry and physics, but was completely snowed by the physics texts I tried to read," he said in an interview. "My father suggested that in order to understand physics, I'd have to learn mathematics. When I began studying mathematics, I lost interest in physics."

With his father, an economist, and his mother, "who hated mathematics," he lived in Silver Spring, Maryland, and began "sitting in" on mathematics courses at the University of Maryland in nearby College Park while attending junior high school. Faculty members at the University of Maryland arranged for him to enroll as a full-time college student.

Maryland Law forbade the admission to state universities of students lacking a high school diploma, but a change in the regulations was made for Dr. Fefferman, and he entered the University of Maryland as a freshman in 1963 at the age of 14. Three years later he earned the B.S. degree and was bound for Princeton and the Ph.D., which he received in 1969. He was a lecturer in mathematics at Princeton in 1969-70, and in 1970 was named Assistant Professor in the Department of Mathematics at The University of Chicago and full Professor in 1971.

Her husband is an alumnus of Hopewell Valley Central High School, the University of Tennessee and Rider College. He is also employed by New Jersey Manufacturers Insurance. The couple will live in Levittown.

As a Sloan Fellow at Chicago in 1970 he did research on Fourier series, a field of advanced mathematics essential to the development of atomic physics; he spent six months of 1971 at the Institut Mittag-Leffler, outside Stockholm, as a NATO Postdoctoral Fellow. In 1971 he also received the Prix Salem, the world's top mathematics prize in his specialty, harmonic analysis and Fourier series.

His stay in Sweden enabled him to study, as he put it, "at the feet of one of the masters of the field, Lennart Carleson," according to Dr. Fefferman, there are a few world masters in the Fourier series, and he wants to study with as many of these as possible.

$101) Salad bowls, beautiful trays, and a neat little chest of coasters round out the wood pile.

Carving is no small matter with all the relatives watching and a martini or two under the belt. In the spirit of hopeful cooperativeness, we suggest the Garber carving set ($42) which has matching steel knives (1 for $28.50) as a lifetime gift. The Sabatier knives are in full supply for the kitchen gourmet, paring knives at $2.10 up to the big bread-knife ($9).

Nassau Interiors has a thought or two for the comfort of holiday party guests: outside and as mean BIG floor pillows. Bold colors and textures like themes such as red white and blue on one side, moss and oriental print on green on the other (about $15). There are smaller pillows too in a spectrum of colors.

Sunday Pickings

Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, 8 Spring Street, will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. the first three Sunday afternoons in December. Busy commuters and harried housewives will have a chance for lively discussion of the purchase of art.

Thus is a special arrangement Mr. and Mrs. Barry Snyder have made to help you in your search for original art. In fact, a general selection may be made with the final decision belonging to the artist.

had chess or checker board in the top ($37.50), and another with beautiful grain that resembles the cross-section of a tree trunk, fitted in three sections. The end tables come in a variety of sizes and designs.

And for those whose household needs include a scatter table or two, Nassau Interiors has them in antique gold or avocado with decorated tops ($41.50).

The porcelain ginger jars, vases and urns, many of them replicas of famous antique designs, are worth perusing. Also, the collection of animal figures from Italy. A tiger, of course, is included.

From Other Lands

Nordkraft, in Princeton Plaza at 356 Nassau Street near Harrison, has a wealth of thoughtful gift ideas — from mohair blankets of unbelievable beauty to hand-crafted dolls to traditional Scandinavian Yule decorations.

The mohair blankets are from Finland. Light, soft, and snugly warming, they come in such colors as orange, flame red, teal blue or warm gray, fogged with black ($39.95 to $52.50). Also in mohair are scarves, a jaunty cap and a Garba sloucher. The mohair poncho comes in a blend of the colors of the sunset. The poncho is fringed, buttoned, and lined.

We noticed well-made wool vests, trimmed in leather; thick mittens in soft, brushed wool for all ages and sexes in such color blends as grey with red, yellow and blue trim. The man's size is $7.50.

Among the handcrafts, a chess set of rosewood with a gilded suede surface ($37.50), an iron chandelier with adaptable candleholders for any size of candle; and dolls made of forest moss by a Norwegian woman. Little figures of a man and woman seated on old logs, and tow-haired, plant boys and girls with wooden shoes ($15.50).

Nordkraft, in addition to its extensive collection of needlecraft for the woman who likes to embroider, has jewelry from Denmark and Sweden in very individual designs. The Danish beater pendants are about $10.50. The Swedish work includes pendant agates on some of the necklaces and bracelets of hammered silver.

Among the Christmas trims is an Advent centerpiece of wood, brass and copper. As the weekly candle burns down, an ascending silhouette is dominant. In another mood the trim includes straw elves and brass stars, red apples (that are also spinning tops, $5), small wooden pigs, significant because ham is traditional served on Christmas Eve.

The Workroom, 221 Witherspoon Street, has parking at the rear as you turn on Witherspoon Lane. In the shop is a profusion of jewelry from the Middle East and from Africa. We also found here a handsome Greek vest in natural white, embroidered in brown wool; sterling silver thimbles from Mexico; camel saddle floor pillows, children's heavy knit sweaters and vests and caps from Mexico, rugs and more.

Among the jewelry: curious, electric blue beads from the Dogon tribe in West Africa, spaced at intervals with brass balls; yellow amber beads the size of figs and smaller ($1-$3), and oval glass in a cobalt blue with colorful zig-zag detail at the ends. An interesting necklace is made of conical brass beads ($16), another, from Ethiopia, has a flat, intricate cross as a pendant ($13.50). Many of the items are antique.

For those who like to string their own necklaces, The Workroom has old beads of all kinds, from silver to carved wood to shell, ($.75 to $1.50). And curious glass boxes with brass edges in square, angular and triangle shapes to put them in.

The handicraft is intriguing: an afghan of heavy brown and white wool ($22); leather shoulder bags; intricate basketry from Harrar, Ethiopia with cowrie shell trim and—for a natural Christmas tree, dipper-shaped gourds from Mali and straw figures from Mexico.

CONSIDER THE ARTS

A gift that increases in value with the years is the hand-designed and numbered graphic, such as those by Matisse, Vasarely, Picasso, Roualt, Dali, Braque and Pascini—all of whom are represented at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, a friendly and helpful browsing place at 8 Spring Street, just off Witherspoon. Prices range from $20 to $1,800.

Warner Drewes is featured in the current show. His small oils on parchment and on canvas and his watercolors reflect his interest in abstract art and nature over a period of some 30 years. ($135-$195).

Other works by well known artists include Dorothea Greenbaum, Thomas George, Wolf Kahn, Jacob Landau, George Greene and Gregorio Prestopino.

There is a selection of miniatures from India (from $40) to consider, as well as the Olympics poster collection—20 different posters by internationally-known artists ($10 each).

The Artisan, at 30 Witherspoon Street, shows in a microcosm the wide-ranging arts of today—from ceramics to blown glass shapes to limited edition graphics, to woven wall hangings to jewelry, wood etchings and original oils and watercolors. Almost 70 artists and craftsmen are represented. Blown glass in a swirl of color appears in abstract shapes and in useful bowls and goblets made by Peter Bramhall of Vermont and by Charles Lutner of Colorado (From $9).

The ceramic wine sets by Nonnie Barnes of Lambertville area are a soft earth brown, lined in white—a jug and four goblets. From Libow Pottery in New Hampshire, flamewear casseroles and frying pans that go from the stove to the table in a most attractive way. The casseroles are in a variety of sizes; and prices; the fry pan we noticed is $8.50. From the same source, wide and shallow bowls for many uses.

The head of the ceramics department at Syracuse University, Henry Gernhardt, applies unique glazes to his work. There are bowls ($5 up); large pieces for the garden; and great platters as large as 19 inches in diameter. Also bake-and-serve platters in oval shapes, ($8). All of the shop's pottery for table use is lead-free, and safe to use.

For the nature-lover, hanging planters in interesting design; ceramic bird-houses, which intrigue the birds, too. Some extraordinary weavings by Pat Kern, Gladys Hoisington, Lore Lindenfeld, Betty Park and, a newcomer, Kay Autrey.

We saw Ann Mitchell's sea scenes; Elizabeth Ruggles' drawings and oils; Judy Grasse's romantic, medieval figures etched on wood; Spacher's metal sculptures, enamel and silver jewelry by the Nagys and by Staffenberg; handblown glass paperweights; batik velvet pillows; stained glass sculpture and decorative sandcastings.

neckties—and offers interliners in a 60c K.I. Pattern, too, of course. For fabric, consider a silky printed polyester or cotton in the traditional feather print or navy-with gold coin shapes.

All the advice and help you need, short of the actual sewing is the hallmark of this friendly shop. They will clue you in on father and a bath robes to make in machine-washable polyesters with the wool-look. The selection includes traditional green or blue plaids; navy or black checks; blue or light green herringbone; and a soft gray-with-gold-smoke plaid as well as solid colors. The materials are 34 inches wide; $5 a yard, and with this width, you won't need much yardage.

If you are going to make the chic palazzo pants, Mrs. Lucille Carnevale and Mrs. Eleanor Nelson will advise you on how to avoid the weary pajama look by choosing the proper fabric weight, the drape of the material and to line or not to line.

There's time to make a vest or skirt for a festive evening. You

Hand-Carved Frames from Mexico

Unusual hand-carved wooden frames from Mexico have just arrived at the Eye for Art, 7 Spring St. et. (just off Witherspoon). The carving is done after the frame is assembled, so the design continues around, well matched.

There's intricate workmanship in the 8x10 frame we saw, which had a hand-rolled pattern of gold leaf and black ($145). Others are in a simpler style in gold or silver leaf ($113, same size). A typical Spanish black-and-gold carved frame comes with the hurlap liner ($15.30).

The frames are a fantastic find, sizes vary widely and the prices are unusual. If you'd like to use one to frame a mirror, Mrs. Helen Benedict will have the glass inserted for you.

Lab at 2½ yards or slightly less in 45-inch wide quilted fabric ($1 per yard). Among the fabrics is a singing print of 21st-century, or long cape, dresses in shades of orange and yellow. Others have deep, dark backgrounds. Consider, too, textured velvet knits (45 inches wide) in stained glass window colors, and the collection of plaids.

Over on Witherspoon Street, The Fabric Center offers glamorous "eyelash" brocades, fully gleaming imports, festooned with tiny loops. The collection includes such colors as pink and peach. $36 inches wide. There are also lame brocades as well as the standard weaves.

In a good velvet, for the 21st-century, or long cape, dress, or vest, or jacket, or pants, anything, practically, even a cushion covers the Fabric Center has stocked a choice of eight colors. ($4.98 per yd.) See also the designer cuts, one of a-kind pieces of material about four yards each.

Make a unisex African Dashik to top a pair of pants, from the 30 different patterns from France. These are in credibly easy to put together; the designs are in two-yard lengths on the bolt (48 inches wide) and you just cut the neck along the design edge, sew the sides, shaping a little, if you want, and hem. The prints are dramatic and colorful, including a gold-and-brown that caught our fancy. The fabric is cotton.

You can make an afghan, a robe, a jacket, a vest, a pillow cover, pants, or a swinging skirt from the Orlon fur furs. Pink and peach as well as the expected fur colors ($4 to $14 inches wide, $1.29 to $4.98 per yard). Or think Aztec prints in cotton for a pants top or combined with terry for a robe, with tasseled cord for a belt ($1.89 per yard). Navy and purple tones predominate in some; brown rust blue in another.

And for bulletin board projects or a new folding screen cover, browse the hurlap in 10 shades (50 inches wide; $1.59 per yard, no flaws and washable). Make a hurlap toy bag with a wire hanger as a base, adding felt cutouts for trim, or mount your teenager's favorite collection of photos, awards and ribbons on a hurlap background.

Mysterious Packages

Under the colorful wrappings, the ribbons and the occasional doggerel verse, comes the thoughtful gift for the woman who takes particular delight in her home. Expensive perhaps, but meant to last and last.

At Princeton Decorating Shop on Palmer Square are Mountain Artisan quilts, 18 inch St. Francis statuettes for an indoor garden; needlepoint or ganizers; hand hooked scatter rugs; and small antiques, such as old Baccarat glass in rose tones.

The quilts are fascinating, ready-made by mountain women using velveteen and taffeta or cottons in harmonious colors. There are pillows, too, in generous sizes. A gift certificate would allow a woman to choose for herself.

We saw silk brocade pillows due in any day from the House of Scalamandre (and for the woman who sews, Princeton Decorating has a basketful of Scalamandre swatches in silks, brocades, French cottons). Exquisite ribbon pillow, with deep taffeta flounces.

Hooked rugs in fresh colors include a design of butterflies and ladybugs against a green-bordered white background, and another that features a great bouquet of lilies of the valley. The rugs can be made to order in any color and in many designs.

There's a fascinating little 1860 biscuit barrel in cut crystal, with hoop handle of silver; and large, antique tile trays; unusual serving platters for tea sandwiches or canapés; a whole gamut of decorative cachepots for the woman with a flowerpot on every available flat surface. And the needlepoint includes some challenging needle point projects: small rugs such as the Chinese type circle, a Persian hunting scene, the anemone pattern and the "English garden."

Princeton Gourmet, at Harrison and Nassau, is showing some intriguing earthenware: cookers for fish, for chicken and small game, each sized and shaped for its little occupant ($25). A glance at the price tags shows an espresso pot at $15; small molds, $4; wall-hanging measuring cups in sets, $12.50.

The excellent yogurt maker by Salton is a five-jar set, ensconced in a slim row in a plastic container. ($11.95; extra jars 98¢ ea.)

At The Game Room on Nassau Street see the "block clocks," cordless, battery-operated clocks in square, recessed or see-through versions. One is almost three feet long, mounted atop a cork bulletin board.

And then there's the Spectrum color clock that keeps luxury time and changes color every 15 seconds. The fascinating waves of blue recede into purple and overblends of red emerge. ($125.)

Have you heard of the color organ? It is a round, pulsating globe of color, especially sensitive to sound, responding in waves of color. Snap your fingers in front of it, or turn on some music and watch the beat of the melody come and go in color. (by Karma, $17.95)

The Game Room has beautifully crafted games many of them as decorative as they are playable, using fine woods and other substances.

HADASSAH SPEAKER: Peckie Witonsky, shown here with some of her plants from her business, Peckie's Plants, will speak in her home to Hadassah members, Wednesday, November 29, on "Decorating with House Plants."

News Of Clubs and Organizations

Hadassah will sponsor a supplies shower as part of its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, November 29 at 8:15 p.m., at the home of Peckie Witonsky, 600 Lake Drive.

Mrs. Witonsky, who has parlayed a hobby into a business called Peckie's Plants, will speak to the group about "Decorating with House Plants." In her informal discussion, she will provide hints for the frustrated indoor gardener and will lead the group through a tour of her green house and indoor "garden," a collection of unusual potted plants. Mrs. Witonsky has conducted workshops, talked to garden clubs and is currently teaching a course at the Y on interior plant designing.

Donations for supplying layette items and the linen closets of the Hadassah Medical Center in Jerusalem will be accepted at the meeting. All the needed supplies will be purchased in Israel; thus Hadassah's contributions support the Israeli textile industry as well as the hospital.

For those unable to attend, contributions can be made by sending a check payable to Princeton Hadassah to Mrs. Ted Begun, 35 Van Wyck Drive, Princeton Junction 08550.

St. Paul's PTA 8 p.m., Monday in the school auditorium.

Guest speakers for the evening will be Detective Douglas A. Watson and Sergeant Thomas D. Procaccino, both of the Borough Police Department. Detective Watson is the Juvenile Officer, a position he has held since August. Sergeant Procaccino is the former Juvenile Officer, prior to his transfer to the Uniform Patrol.

Both will speak and show the various amphetamines, barbiturates, as well as the various symptoms and effects of each type of drug.

Following their presentation, refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

Kingston First Aid and Rescue Squad 8 p.m. Monday, at the Franklin State Bank Community Room. Election of officers will be held.

Benson fruit cakes and Birn Christmas candles are being sold by members of the Squad now, and will also be sold at the December 2 Bazaar of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Kingston Fire Company. The Squad's table at the Bazaar will feature other holiday items.

The Squad would like to again thank the people of the community for the help and support they have given during the past few months of fund raising activities. There has been much success, and the Squad still plans to go into operation on January 1.

The Annual Holiday Bazaar sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton First Aid & Rescue Squad will be held this Saturday from 10 to 5.

NOTICE
Those wishing to have articles published in the "News of Clubs and Organizations" column should submit them no later than noon Monday, the week of publication. Earlier copy will be appreciated.

at the Harrison Street Squad Building.

Princeton Chapter of Parents Without Partners 8 p.m., Tuesday, at the First Presbyterian Church. Mr. Robert P. Binnio, Director of Admissions Services at Rutgers, will speak on "Problems of College Selection and Admission". Guests are welcome.

The Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" will be sung by the Hightstown Choral Society on Sunday, December 3, at 4 in Peddie Chapel, Hightstown. The society, under the direction of Dorothy Hartley, numbers more than 60 voices. The concert will have the accompaniment of orchestral musicians in this area. Admission is free.

rose, gold, soft blue, cocoa (By Hushpuppy)
Clogs remain on the scene for winter, but with nailheads added. Huli's has some interesting boots, too, for the ladies with sleek legs — in smooth leathers, vinyls and suedes. Heels vary in size. All by Carber.

For all sizes, smallest to largest, sturdy Wafflestompers, hiking boots for the whole family, starting with small children's size 9.

At The Wearhouse. In Princeton Plaza, an extraordinary collection of belts. Glamour types to wear with party skirts or pants—in stretch gold or silver mesh ($4). Slender wrap-and-tie belts with tassels ($3), and unusual suedes with buckles you'd never have dreamed of. Prices are low, as Wearhouse discounts.

Here you'll also find those sleek little mohair soft sweaters, with lambswool and a synthetic added to take away the itch. Sleek, ribbed styles, for the most part.

The Natural Way.
The Whole Earth Center, Princeton Plaza, has recycled Christmas cards — the paper is recycled, not the design — thus saving wear and tear on the forests. A box is $3.75 (single cards also available), and there is also attractive notepaper in a pretty fern print. ($2 per box).

For milady's bath, natural Loofa. Soak it well before using it in the tub. ($1.13). For tea time—natural herb teas: sassafras and rosehip are healthful as well as different.

Chopsticks to stuff into a stocking (30 cents), or a copy of Mother Earth News ($1.35) which gives information on how to make vinegar, root beer, how to make a rug from scraps, and odd bits of information, such as how to buy a caboose.

Whole Earth has the Balkan yogurt-maker ($9.95), and a really wild and wonderful assortment of books, including Adelle Davis's "Let's Cook It Right" and the New York Times's Natural Foods Cook Book.

He has twice taken leaves of absence to serve the Department of Defense: in 1956-57 as Chief Scientist of the U.S. Air Force and in 1960-61 to accept appointment by President Eisenhower as Secretary of the Air Force for Research and Development.

At Princeton, where he has been serving as full Professor since 1947, Perkins was appointed Chairman of the Aeronautical Engineering Department in 1951 and in 1963, with the consolidation of two departments assumed his present position while also serving as Associate Dean of the School of Engineering and Applied Science, a post he held for eight years.

It Was 6-3, Alright, But Not 6-3 PHS Wanted

Oh, but it was frustrating. Winless Trenton High School stunned streaking Princeton High School, 6-3, here Saturday and the groans and cries of anguish on the part of the Little Tigers and their followers could be heard all the way to Trenton.

For the moment, anyway, this one hurt too badly to point out that PHS had, despite the loss to Trenton, won five of nine contests this season to engineer a remarkable turnaround from the previous year, when it failed to win a single game. What made the loss so painful was that the Little Tigers had chance after chance to score and let them all slip through their fingers.

"It's a shame," said a disappointed Dick Wood after the game. The PHS coach added: "It never should have happened. Shoot, this is the game we'll remember all winter. It's good for Trenton, but bad for our kids."

PHS is Tight. "Our kids were so darn tight in the beginning they just couldn't do anything right." Then he commented that perhaps the coaches were just as much to blame. "Maybe we made too much of the game," he said. We harped all week on Trenton and what might happen. We may have done more harm than good by it.

The game was a classic example of one team pushing the other all over the field, racking up one-sided margins in all statistics but the one that counts most: the final score. In short, PHS was beaten more by itself than it was by Trenton. "We gave them the game, no question about it," said Wood.

Trenton was able to gain only one first down in the entire first half. Turnovers by both clubs came so fast it was hard to keep track. Yet the Tigers — Continued on Next Page rain is a question that will go unanswered, but Princeton could not hang onto a dry ball. As they have so often in the past three years, turnovers killed the Tigers, who yielded 17 points in the first half before they either recorded a first down or moved into Yale territory.

Blair Magaziner, deep on Yale punts, fumbled the first two times the Elis kicked, and when they recovered the second time, it took only four plays for Dick Jauron to score the first of his three touchdowns. Another bad snap from center Paul Yakulis, who has had periodic problems in that department this fall, set up the second Yale score. Jauron a gun going over to climax a four play drive from 21 yards out.

The victors added a 28 yard field goal before Dave Mistretta launched Princeton's lone march of the day. Three completed passes highlighted the 68 yard drive. Jud Wagnerseller going over from the 1 in narrow the gap to 17-7. That, however, was Princeton's lone success, and when Yale picked off a Mistretta pass early in the third quarter to gain possession on the Tiger 6, school was out.

Two personnel losses in the offensive line were a factor in Princeton's inability to gain more than 62 yards rushing. Senior tackle Jeff Bart did not make the trip after he incurred a leg infection, and the personnel shuffle gave his job to a player who had lost his starting assignment on the other side of the line a fortnight ago.

Late in the first half, veteran Bill Brown, a fine guard, suffered a mild concussion and sat out the rest of the game. Losses up front of that caliber kept efforts by Wagnerseller and fullback Bruce Harding to the low point of the year.

Problem for McCandless. Some time before Saturday's kickoff against Cornell, Jake McCandless must chose between Fred Dalzell and Dave Mistretta as his starting quarterback. Over and above the human element, he is confronted with these statistics.

Mistretta has been a winner in two of the three games he has started but has a pass completion record of 11 for 35 and three interceptions. Thus his completion record is barely above the percentage of passes which the opposition picks off based on those which come out actually catches.

Dalzell, whose completion average is just over 50, ranked third behind Flynn and Plummer last year as a sophomore and after 17 games on the varsity has yet to start and win. He opened against Colgate and Penn. and when his ribs were bruised during the latter game, Mistretta took over, producing victories over Brown and Harvard. Flynn top man when the season started, has not played since he was hurt at Harvard in the third game.

A bargain is a bargain.

While you can see the new 1973 Beetle is still at a nice low price, you really can't begin to see the value until you know what you're getting for your money.

A warranty, for instance, that's twice what you get with any other small car: 24 months or 24,000 miles.

But then, we wouldn't be offering it if it weren't for our incredibly finicky factory inspection: over 1100 inspectors poring over more than 5,000 parts. (It sounds compulsive, but it's the best way to reach perfection.)

Consider also our legendary resale value. When you compare it with other cars after three years, it makes our $1999* sound absolutely amazing!

Everything adding up to an important point, there's a big difference between being cheap, and being a bargain.

Tall Princeton Basketball Team Nears Opening of Season

In the earliest start scheduled for a within memory, Princeton's basketball team will open its season next Wednesday, November 29, just four days after the last football game. Penn State, in which the Tigers lost, 72-70, a year ago, will provide the opposition in Jadwin Gym at 8 p.m.

Brian Taylor, who has made it with the New York Nets, is gone, but Bill Kapler and Bill Daake are back. The New York Times' somewhat surprising viewpoint is that this exchange makes Princeton a stronger Ivy League contender than it was last year, but the odds are against Kapler and Daake between them matching the 25-points per game average that Taylor achieved.

The added height this pair of 6-8 forwards will provide with 6-9 Andy Rimol up front should improve Princeton rebounding, although a number of teams can come close to matching that kind of height. Kapler, however, has a fine reputation as an aggressive rebounder.

A back injury sidelined him all last season, after a good sophomore year. Daake sat out his junior year for personal reasons, but second thoughts prompted him to return to the court this winter. A top scholastic player from the St. Louis area, he will add strength to the Tigers if he lives up to his potential in his final season.

Reserve Strength. Letterman John Berger, 6-5, and two of last year's reserves, John Sadoska and Joe Vavrecka, are others looking for work as forwards. The lone prospect from an unusually weak freshman team is 6-8 Jim Florio.

Captain Ted Manakas, whose 13 point average gave the Tigers 38 backcourt points a game with Taylor last winter, will begin his third year as "quarterback." A topflight ball handler, a good outside shooter who can also drive for the basket with extreme accuracy, he will be a major asset.

Jim Sullivan, another senior, is the likely replacement for Taylor to pair with Manakas. If either of them is in foul trouble, the degree of experience will dwindle to the vanishing point.

Gone with Taylor are two fine players who helped the Tigers to a 20-7 record, a 12-2 runner-up Ivy League berth and a place in the National Invitation Tournament. Captain Al Duffy's 11-point average and extreme dependability will be missing from the front court.

So will Reg Bird, the agile guard who saw more action as a reserve than some starting players do. Extremely adept defensively, he often added key points during tight going and was drafted by the Atlanta Falcons of the NBA.

Penn, the defending champion, and Harvard again rate as the teams to beat among the Ivies. Princeton figures to have a good shot at a first division berth but without Taylor is not the strong title contender it would have been.

After the Penn State opener, the Tigers head for the Palestra on December 2 to play Villanova. They'll be in Madison Square Garden Thursday, December 7, to face Rutgers, labelled one of the top eastern independents this season. Home games with Davidson and Virginia are on the schedule (see pages 28 and 29) before two holiday tournaments.

does were able to carry a 6-3 margin into the locker room at the half on a fluke play. Fluke—if one were rooting for PHS—a heads-up play from a Trenton viewpoint.

It came with 9:31 remaining in the second period. After Greg Kline had passed to Mike Diamond for a first down on the Trenton nine, Bob Zinsmeister carried to the five on the next play.

Play Covers 95 Yards. On second down, Kline attempted to lateral the ball. He hesitated and never saw Trenton's Jim Austin coming from his blind side. Austin literally took the ball right out of Kline's hands and sped toward the goal, 95 yards away.

Before the PHS team could react, Austin had such a lead over his pursuers that they gave up the hopeless chase in midfield. Trenton attempted to pass for the two-point conversion but it was broken up by Craig Carlton.

Zinsmeister carried the return kickoff to the 41. Despite a PHS clip penalties and interceptions were to torment the Blue and White all during the game. Kline guided the home team down field, passing to Zinsmeister for Princeton's eighth first down on the Trenton eight. Zinsmeister, who entered the game with eight receptions for a 24.3 average yard gain per catch, made a fine grasp of Kline's high pass.

In three plays, however, PHS was driven back. On a fourth and 12, Ned Fry booted a field goal from the 16 yard line for a 28-yard effort. Fry, as a result, ended as the second highest scorer for the season with 28 points. Two of three field goal attempts and 22 for 22 in extra points.

The second half was one of missed chances for PHS. Time and again, the PHS defense, led by Frank Caponi and Walter Alexander presented the Little Tigers with excellent field positions. But PHS, forced to depend on the pass more than the run because of a slippery, muddy field, couldn't put a drive together.

Moreover, the Tornadoes, buoyed by their gift TD and seeking a possible first win, played better ball in the second half. Their defense was stopping Princeton on the long pass and their offense, moribund in the first half, came alive just enough to register key first downs that enabled Trenton to eat up the clock.

Mooney to Diamond. Mooney replaced Kline at quarterback to start the second half. Before long, he had hit Mike Diamond for three straight completions. On the latter, PHS was whistled for an ineligible receiver downfield—the second time it was guilty of that infraction. Instead of a first down on the 35, PHS was back in its own territory. A few plays later, Mooney passed into a crowd; the ball was tipped and picked off by Trenton's Rich Bonner. Before the period ended Mooney had the team moving with a first down—No. 13 for PHS—on the Trenton 30, but again Bonner picked off a tipped Mooney pass on the 21.

With 6:50 remaining, George Reynolds intercepted a pass from THS quarterback Tom Pascone on the 30 but PHS, with Kline back at the helm, was unable to move. Although Trenton ate up the clock by getting one first down, Dan Poling recovered his second THS fumble with 1:16 to go on the visitors' 28.

Kline's first pass to the goal line was no good and his second was intercepted by Austin Fifty-six seconds were left. Calling time out after every play, PHS forced THS to punt and Dene Black brought PHS its last chance when he returned the kick to the Trenton 32. Twenty-nine seconds left.

Mooney's second pass was intercepted. Had PHS been able to keep the ball, Wood and after the game he would have sent Fryn to try a field goal. "At that point I was willing to settle for a 66 tie," he said.

One player who was tight for PHS was center Jeff La wis who on three consecutive occasions snapped the ball over punter Ron Campbell's head. The first came early in the game and Trenton fell on the loose ball on the PHS 14. It was unable to capitalize, however, on its first play from scrimmage the snapback was fumbled and Richard Guzy recovered for PHS.

Still in the first period, Alexander recovered Trenton's second fumble on the 24. Three Kline passes were off the mark and Campbell went back to punt. This time he one handed Lewis' high snap, tucked the ball under his arm and ran for a first down to the 47 for a 23 yard gain.

Again, PHS failed to move and Campbell went back to punt, and again the snap was high. This time Campbell was able to bring the ball down and get the kick off in time.

After Trenton was unable to do anything (it never seriously threatened throughout the game) it had to punt. Consecutive carries of 18 and 15 yards by fullback Bob Weisbecker up the middle sparked the PHS drive that carried to the Trenton nine. Two plays later, Austin stole the ball and the game.

"I was afraid of this," said Wood later. "I felt the same as I did last week: we had to get started and do something early or we would be in trouble. We had many, many chances. The defense did an exception job you can't fault them at all. They gave up field position but we just couldn't get it in."

Asked if he were satisfied with a 54 record, Wood replied, "No. I'm not satisfied! I'm happy the season wasn't any worse, but it's a disappointing way to end."

When you look back over the whole thing, it wasn't too bad, though."

Play Last Game. Seniors playing their last game include Ned Fry, Craig Carlton, Tom Hofgesang, Dene Black, Bob Weisbecker, Frank Caponi, Greg Kline, Jeff Lewis, Jim Rossi, Guy Pierson, John Gianacaci, Frank Boyer, Alan Schwartz, Dave Cowan, who together with Caponi co-captained the team; Tom Masun, Dan Poling, John Rossi, Willie Alexander, Howard Sweetser, Richard Guzy, Wray Blattner and Wes McClain.

Zinsmeister led in scoring with six TDs, three rushing and three on pass receptions. Weisbecker had four TDs and Kline and Black, three each. Black, shut out in the final game, was the leading pass receiver with 21 for 463 yards and a 22.0 average gain. Diamond, who grabbed eight against Trenton, was second with 19 receptions including two for touchdowns.

Carlton led in pass interceptions with six, Black had four and Zinsmeister and Reynolds picked off two each.

PHS SOPHOMORES WIN

For Undeclared Grid Record. Scoring a 27-6 victory over St. Anthony's last week in its final game of the season, the Princeton High sophomore football team finished its second undefeated season in a row with a 6-0 record. The only blemish was an opening 6-6 tie with Hamilton.

PHS quarterback Pete Watson threw touchdown passes of 35 and one yard to Steve Tomlinson and Dave Lion, and fullback Don Bonsteel plunged over for another from the two. Robert Wood's 10-yard sweep accounted for the Little Tigers' first score. St. Anthony's had scored first on a sneak early in the second period, when its quarterback went 60 yards.

Outstanding during the season for PHS were Watson, Wood and Tomlinson on offense, the latter snaring six TD passes. Others were Ken Hill offensive guard and defensive tackle, and Alex Kinnan, offensive and defensive guard.

The team was coached by Geoff Hill and Don Cartwright, both joining the staff for the first time this fall. "I'm real pleased to say the least," commented Hill after the final game.

INDOOR RELAYS HERE

In Judwin Dec. 16, Princeton University will host the second annual edition of the Princeton Indoor Relays on Saturday, December 16, in Judwin Gym. It is expected that the event this year will attract more than 30 schools and close to 600 athletes.

In addition to the usual indoor relay format of one and two-mile relays, the meet will include a shuttle hurdle relay, the Princeton Medley relay (140 110 220 330) and the distance medley relay. A two-mile run and 60-yard dash augment the track portion of the program, while field events.

LOWER COSTS SEEN

For Hospital Care. Despite publicity on the mounting expense of health care, the future cost of most illnesses and injuries experienced by Princeton area residents may very well decline.

The reason, according to John W. Kauffman, executive vice president of The Medical Center at Princeton, is the concept of comprehensive care. Mr. Kauffman, chairman-elect of the American Hospital Association, made his predictions during a dinner sponsored by the Medical Center of its former trustees.

Terming the center "one of the most complete health care institutions in the nation," the hospital executive lauded former trustees for their "very important role" in its development. "Because of your commitment to the community and your vision for its well-being," Mr. Kauffman said, "area residents have available the most complete health care program in the state."

Tracing development of the center from its beginnings as a converted farmhouse, Mr. Kauffman and other hospital officials detailed present functions of the center's Medical Arts, Princeton Hospital, Princeton House and Merwick units. "Together," he noted, "these units provide area residents with facilities to meet virtually any level of required health care at the lowest possible cost."

Cost Cutting. Citing the example of a hip fracture, the hospital official placed the total cost of treatment in an acute care hospital at $3,000. "For a Princeton area resident," he added, that cost could be reduced to $1,950 by limiting the length of stay in an acute medical environment and placing the patient under less expensive extended care at Merwick.

"Costs can be further reduced," Mr. Kauffman predicted, as the health care profession "continues to educate people on how to stay well and treat them at the earliest sign of illness."

Mr. Kauffman was joined on the program by Ralph S. Mason, president of the non-profit Medical Center Board of Trustees, who praised former hospital leaders for their contributions "to the tripartite effort shared by our administration and medical staff."

"We're all involved in seeing that there is quality patient care," he told former trustees. "The patient is our primary concern, a concern which must not be limited to a hospital bed."

NEW DEAN APPOINTED

To Head Graduate School, Dr. Alvin B. Kernan, the Karl Young Professor of English Literature at Yale University, who has combined major administrative assignments with nationally recognized scholarship, has been named Dean of the Graduate School and Professor of English at Princeton University. The appointment will be effective next July 1.

The 49-year-old Kernan, a member of the Yale Faculty since 1954 with interests in Elizabethan drama, modern theater, and general poetic theory, will succeed physicist

Postal Holiday Thursday

The Princeton Post Office will follow regular holiday schedules on Thanks giving Day this Thursday.

No regular window or delivery services will be available but Special Delivery services will be provided. Lobbies will be open at Palmer Square and Alexander Street for access to Post Office boxes and stamp vending machines.

Collection from street letterboxes will be on holiday schedules plus an "Air-Mail Only" boxes collection at 4 p.m. to connect with all dispatches of value.

GEOFF HILL along with Oon Cortwright guided the PHS sophomore football team to an undefeated season this year. The 6-5 Hill played football at Hill School, New Brunswick High and Springfield College before earning a master's degree from the Citadel. He coached at Charleston, S.C., before coming to Princeton this year.

Aaron Lamonick, Graduate Dean for the past four years, On July 1, as President William G. Bowen announced last January, Professor Lamonick, also 49, will become Dean of the Faculty, succeeding Richard A. Lester. Next spring Dean Lester, Professor of Economics and Public Affairs, will reach the administrative retirement age of 65.

Professor Kernan, Director of Yale's Division of the Humanities in 1970-72, is the eighth educator to serve as Dean of the Graduate School, a post created in 1900. His selection culminates what President Bowen described as "a 10-month search which was a nationwide canvass of the outstanding possibilities throughout American higher education."

Dr. Kernan, the recipient in 1966 of one of the 33 top fellowships awarded by the National Endowment for the Humanities for special research, is the first humanist to be designated Graduate Dean since the retirement in 1928 at age 75 of the first Graduate Dean, classicalist Andrew Fleming West.

Following a year as Instructor of English at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., Professor Kernan joined Yale's Department of English in 1951 and has been at Yale for the past 18 years. He was Associate Provost for a period of three years (1964-68), served as Acting Provost of the University for the 1970 spring term and was named first incumbent of the Karl Young Professorship in 1971.

Other academic and administrative positions include his 1967 appointment by President Kauffman Brewster to the special research team studying the possible move of Vassar College to the Yale Campus, heading Yale's investigations in the academic areas. In 1964-65 he was chairman of Directed Studies in Yale College, a program that permits a small number of selected students to spend the first two years in specially designed seminars in the humanities and the sciences.

An effective and popular teacher on both the undergraduate and graduate levels, the Dean Designate is currently directing Yale's Major in Literature, a "new undergraduate major offering study of the full range of literature and fictions, without limitation to a single language or national literature." Last spring he was honored by Yale Phi Beta Kappa with one of its William Clyde DeVane Medals for Distinguished Teaching and Scholarship.

END OF THE LINE

For PHS Soccer Team. The finest season ever for any Princeton High School soccer team came to an end Friday when Sterling, the state's seventh ranked team, ousted the Little Tigers from the NJSIAA tournament, 2-0.

Earlier, the surprising Little Tigers had defeated Moorestown and Ocean Township in the state tourney for its seventh and eighth victories of the campaign, one more than any recorded by a PHS soccer team. Princeton's final 8-8-1 record was its best ever and it marked the first time the Blue and White had participated in the annual NJSIAA event.

"We had a bad day against Sterling," said PHS coach Mel Jones. He reported that center back Bernie Shanfield was sidelined with an illness and consequently, "I had to shuffle around some of the positions."

"Still," continued Jones, "I'm satisfied with the season. We made our preliminary goal to make the state tournament and we went pretty far; we won two games. We'll try to make it next year, too."

Jones loses eight through graduation: Chris Bauman, Shanfield, Randy Thomas, Henry Pradi, the team's leading scorer this year, Dudley Woodbridge, Jim Bolster and Eric Laschever.

He acknowledged it represented a lot of holes to fill but he pointed out that PHS "had a very good Jaycee contingent coming up. A lot of good talent."

It was the first season for Jones, who coached the Jaycees last year to serve as head coach. He is a former player at Trenton State. He was assisted by Lamont Fletcher, also in his first year on the coaching staff.

SECOND WIN RECORDED

By Jr. Rifle Club. The Princeton Junior Rifle Club, coached by Lt. Richard V. Steiner of the Township police, made it two wins in as many tries last week, when it upset a team of Princeton University undergraduates, 10-18 to 9-19, at the Citizens' Rifle and Revolver Club on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. "They've surprised me so far at the way they've been shooting," said Lt. Steiner.

High shooter for the Junior Rifle Club, comprised of area high school students, was Jack Sreley with 270 out of a possible 300. Scott Holtzclaw, 264, Kevin Mellin, 259, and Lonnie Baldino, 255, followed.

Rick Mott, captain of the university team, led all shooters with 276. Dave Seitzman shot 268, Jack Clay 237 and Charles Rounds, 198.

Each shooter fires ten shots in a prone, kneeling and standing position with a .22 caliber rifle. The two teams will engage in a return match in December.

able. Cephas Monnett, a well-known instructor of young tournament players, will head the junior classes.

Hugo "Kt" Huetzig, a former member of the Princeton University varsity tennis team, will join Karen Bull to direct the adult lessons. In addition, many outstanding college players have been added to the winter staff.

Classes are limited to four to six students per court. In the event that persons cannot be placed in the opening classes, a second session is scheduled to begin February 5.

New Jersey Bell ought to do more to make phone service better.

True

False

We're doing a lot about phone service right now.

In fact, we're in the midst of our largest construction program ever. Spending over one million dollars every working day this year, doing such things as installing more cable underground, bringing electronic switching to more localities, making Dial Tone First and Touch-Tone® service available to more people.

That's a pretty good record. But we'll have to do even more in the years to come because being good isn't good enough.

To meet your soaring demands, we see the need to spend $2.5 billion on construction programs in the next five years alone. Doubling our investment in facilities, and in effect building a new New Jersey Bell. To do this, we must earn well in order to justify the investment of such massive amounts of new capital.

Good service, good earnings—they're closely related. In the long run, you can't have one without the other.

We've set a high standard for telephone service in New Jersey. We're doing our best to live up to it.

Being good isn't good enough.

Anger at Racial Rebuff Leads to Better Job

"I was furious! Absolutely furious!" Consuelo (Connie) Campbell still remembers that fury, although it was eight years ago. It was anger over the refusal of a local store — which shall be nameless — to hire her because she was black.

"A little while after, I happened to be in the Palmer Square area and I stormed into Clayton's and applied for a job," she recalls. "Barbara Garretson, the owner, told me she had always wanted to hire a saleslady who was a Negro — remember when we all said 'Negro' instead of 'black'? — but none had ever applied and so she hired me."

Eight years and several responsible positions later, Mrs. Campbell is the new manager of Clayton's new Nassau Street branch shop.

At first, back in 1964, she worked throughout the Clayton store. Then, when the Garretsons expanded, she was assigned to fabrics, specializing in linens although, like others in the fabric department, she "floated," handling the sales of needles, pins and zippers as well as linens.

Within Clayton's, everyone has certain assigned tasks," she explains, "but you also 'float' as well. After fabrics, LADY IN CHARGE: Consuelo Campbell is manager of the new and mirrored Clayton's on Nassau Street. Buying in New York, selling to customers, providing custom-customer service, managing a staff of five — it's all part of an exciting new job for this long-time Princeton resident.

helpful. "Sewing helps in the fitting work, in knowing all the new textiles, and even in selling. Clayton's has spoiled me! I am very, very critical now of the way clothing is made — details, buttons, workmanship."

Now, as manager of the branch store, she will be going to New York with Mrs. Garretson to assist in buying. "I am constantly learning," Mrs. Campbell says. "I have been to a couple of houses in New York on my own, for the first time, and I'll be doing this more and more."

Clayton's plans to expand its couture and designer lines, Mrs. Campbell explains. "That's the look we want," she says, gesturing around the new shop with its mirrored walls and crystal chandeliers.

Connie Campbell looks back on those two years in Kansas as a wonderful experience in meeting the public. She recalls, still with a warm smile, how her boss telephoned her mother in Princeton, when he came east on a buying trip, just to say her little girl was all right. "It was a good feeling that a hard-core business man could be so hearted and concerned."

Volunteer. Although the job as Mrs. Campbell's first meet-the-public experience in one sense, she had been meeting the Princeton public for a good many years, as a volunteer in a wide variety of Princeton activities.

She, her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ruby Campbell and her daughter, Mrs. Daphne Moore, have all been on the board of the Princeton Nursery School. Right now, Connie Campbell is on the YWCA board, is treasurer of the Princeton Interfaith Council, and a board member of the Elizabeth Taylor Dyer Scholarship Fund.

She is an Elder of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church and has been Clerk of the Session. She has also been a board member of the Family Service. In 1970, to no one's particular surprise, she was presented with the Council of Community Services' award for community service.

The YWCA is probably dear to her heart and memory. "I grew up in the 'Y,'" she says affectionately, recalling her days in the kindergarten tap dancing class. This, of course, was the old segregated "Y."

Community service, professional or volunteer, is almost a requirement in Mrs. Campbell's family. Her son-in-law is Borough Councilman Joseph Moore, who is also Dean Moore of the Princeton University staff. Mrs. Moore is administrative assistant to the University's Dean Cecilia Drexler; daughter Sharon Campbell in computer work, is a Project Director for the Temple University Dental School; son Bruce Campbell, after two years at Dartmouth joined the Marines "he said he needed the discipline!" his mother laughs. Others are Lynette, a sophomore at Douglass; Mark, at Princeton High; grandson Jerry who enlists the second grade at John Witherspoon School and of course husband Floyd who's with the Princeton Post Office. "Floyd is the one," says Consuelo Campbell, who keeps me together."

NEVUS TO GO...

Bank to Come In. Good hard cash will replace soft, trading chaffon after the first of the year when the New Jersey National Bank of Princeton moves into the space now occupied by Nevus-Voorhees store at 194 Nassau Street. "We hope our structural changes will be completed by January 31," says Richard D. Macgill, president of N.J. Bancorporation, parent of New Jersey National of Princeton. Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr of Princeton, are the architects.

"We've expanded our Lawrence Shopping Center store, and we plan another store in this area by the end of 1973," says John Nevus, of the Nevus-Voorhees firm. He declined to say where it would be.

He added that the 3,000 square feet of the 194 Nassau Street location is "too small for a department store." Nevus-Voorhees was the first tenant in the space and has been there since the office building was completed in the mid 1960s.

The new bank will be, in Mr. Macgill's words, "a full-service, broad-base bank for everyone." New Jersey National of Princeton is renting the space from the Hilton Realty Company, owner of the building, taking over the Nevus-Voorhees lease.

"We hope to outgrow the space in a few years," Mr. Macgill says, "and we'll be looking for a larger place."

The bank will be the first new bank in Princeton since 1893, when the First National Bank was founded.

DIVIDEND INCREASED

By Princeton American Bancorp. An increase in the quarterly dividend to 23.5 cents per share payable to shareholders of Princeton American Bancorp common stock has been announced by James D. Elleman, Chairman of the Board of Directors. This represents an increase in the dividend rate of $.90 to $.91, or $.01 per share, on an annual basis.

According to Mr. Elleman, this dividend increase reflects a continuing favorable earnings trend anticipated earlier this year, and we look for further improvement in 1973.

A regular quarterly dividend of $0.75 per share to shareholders of Princeton American preferred stock was also announced. The dividends are payable December 15, 1972 to shareholders of record December 1, 1972.

LOSS AT APPLIED LOGIC

But Trend Is Reversed. Applied Logic Corporation has announced a loss of $271,061 or 15 cents per share on revenues of $2,836,171 for its fiscal year ended September 30.

The loss reported for the first nine months was reduced by fourth quarter earnings of $75,249 on revenues of $838,368. Revenues for fiscal 1972 are up 15% over fiscal 1971, while fourth quarter revenues show an increase of 64% over the same period a year ago.

With the implementation of a plan of quasi reorganization at the start of fiscal 1972, and as a result of continuing improvements in the cost to revenue ratio, the loss for fiscal 1972 represents a 90% reduction from the loss of $2,711,426 reported for fiscal 1971. The company said it is optimistic about a continuing upward trend. Applied Logic provides computer services via a nationwide communications network. The company's securities are traded over the counter.

NEW SHOWROOM OPEN
 By Regal Home & Kitchen. A new design showroom for homeowners in the area has been opened by Regal Home & Kitchen Center at 30 George Dye Road and Route 33 in Hamilton Square.

Concentrating on the two rooms in a home that get the most use, the Regal Home & Kitchen Center contains eight full displays of kitchens and baths that will be changed from time to time. Designs to fit any pocketbook range from modern in Colonial to Spanish with different wood tones and color combinations.

To complement basic cabinetry and fixture designs, and colors Regal has a full paneling department, and carpet and flooring section where color and texture coordinates may be selected. The wall panel display is unusual in that each sample is mounted on rollers, enabling the customer to compare a number of panels at the same time.

Another outstanding feature is a fully operational kitchen where homeowners can see how different appliances work and look. Included are some of the latest conveniences such as a trash compactor, microwave range and indoor charcoal grill. A full line of brand name kitchen and laundry appliances are also on display.

In addition to the kitchen and bath, design service is available for almost every room in the house: family room, library, bar, bedroom where cabinets, shelving, paneling and floor covering are involved. Cabinets are custom manufactured by Regal's own factory in Chesterfield. There are others by Brechtel or Roseline and standard sized stock line cabinets and vanities by Excel.

Regal's new showroom was established, said Joseph F.

Monahan, director of operations, because of the growing need of homeowners, apartment dwellers, builders and interior designers for a central location to see at first hand new ideas in home decorating and improvements. Regal Home & Kitchen Center will serve as a central design showcase where designers are available without charge and selections can be made in relaxed and pleasant surroundings.

JOB REFERRAL OFFERED

To Aid Women Here. The formation of a job referral service in Princeton was announced this week by Lynne Darcy, Coordinator of the New Jersey Women on Employment, a task force organized by the New Jersey Chapters of the National Organization for Women (N.O.W.) to eliminate discrimination against women in both government employment and private industry.

The service solicits job vacancy listings from employers and also resumes from women interested in job placement. The announcement pointed out:

Now that "for men only" signs have been removed from all jobs, thanks to State and Federal regulations against discrimination, employers are actively seeking women for these previously all male occupations. Since relatively few women have had the opportunity to acquire or enlarge their skills in these job categories, a statewide geographical area is needed to draw qualified applicants. Also, because of the still present discrimination against them, many women can't find jobs comparable with their skills locally. Our job referral service hopes to match them up.

Employer listings for the job referral service should include all prerequisite, for the position as well as an indication of the starting salary range. Applicants should include in their resumes their education, previous experience (both paid and volunteer), salary requirement, geographical area preferred, and an indication of the areas of vo-

Bicycle Safety Rules for After-Dark

Dark comes early these autumn days. Too many bike riders aren't obeying the laws that apply especially to cyclists and automobile drivers, says Township Traffic Officer Sgt. Anthony Neri. Regulations:

- All bikes must have a light on front reflecting a red light.
- Bike riders MUST ride WITH the traffic — on the right side of the street just like a car.
- Bike riders must obey traffic lights and stop signs just like a motorist.
- Bike riders can be given a traffic ticket for violating just like a motorist. And if a young rider doesn't wear a helmet, he can be taken to juvenile court.

Sgt. Neri isn't happy about "inexperienced" riders who handle bikes which he says aren't safe. He also urges parents to emphasize safety rules and to be sure bike brakes work, pedals aren't worn — and lights are in place.

The Rising Generation

THE RISING GENERATION: IS IT RISING OR FALLING?

By Sanford C. Reynolds Jr., Township Committeeman and Vice-chairman, Princeton Recreation Board

There are some who believe the so-called "rising" generation is falling—perhaps they would prefer to use the word "falling." As a parent of a young adult and a teenager—I disagree.

First let us look at the role we parents played in molding the society in which this rising generation is maturing. Many of us were raised during the Depression and exposed to an atmosphere of deprivation and insecurity. It was we, their parents, who devoted our primary energies during the 1950's to seeking a more comfortable, more secure style of life.

Our principle aims in many cases, were designed to raise the standard of living for ourselves and we entered enthusiastically into the race. And we made it! We won! We point with pride to such materialistic things as our income, where we live, the clubs we belong to, the esteem we have in the community, and our social contacts. These, for the most part, are measurable goals and we are rightfully proud of having achieved a lifestyle better than that enjoyed by our strict, conservative parents.

But what happened on our way to achieving this standard of living? For one thing—we had more children than our parents. The birth rate, after declining for 130 years, increased sharply in 1946 and stayed high until the mid 60's. And understandably, nothing but the best was good enough for our children.

We naturally expected them to be just as excited and proud of our materialistic accomplishments as we were. Often in dealing with our children, we substituted "things" for the plain old-fashioned "love" we had received from our parents. Sometimes our children got in the way of our achieving or the enjoyment of our achievements. It was easier to "buy them off" or ignore them, than to discipline them.

Kind sight is always keen. It's not surprising now, as we look back, that in the mid 60's the atmosphere began to change and our children became bored with the ease of suburban life. When they informed us that they wanted "to do their own thing," we couldn't understand. We thought they were ungrateful brats. In reality, they were seeking a life style which had meaning for them, something which could give them a greater sense of individual worth, something they could do on their own and of which they could be proud.

I have worked closely with many of the youth of Princeton during this period of social change. It would have been helpful to have known in 1965 what I do now.

As time went on, I began to learn that "doing their own thing" for most youngsters does not mean starting a revolution or forming a new society devoid of rules. I learned that the rising generation is intelligent, more individualistic and questioning. They do not reject discipline and in fact, sometimes cry out for it. But they will not accept blindly other people's values nor arbitrary discipline. It is not acceptable to them to be told "do it because I told you to do it." They want to know "why should I do it?" And "if I have to do it, why doesn't Johnny?"

I believe our rising generation is generally more mature than we were at a comparable age. They want to be given more responsibility and often are able to handle it well. They do not want to be "spoon fed" and are prepared to face reality. Another key idea which developed among youth during the late '60's and which still survives is "tell it like it is." They can't put up with hypocrisy. They want to separate fact from fiction.

I was impressed with the contributions made by Princeton High School students last year on the Committee to Develop Guidelines for the school sports program. They wanted to know the facts. They were distressed by rumors they had heard about the future of sports at school; they wanted to do something about it.

The football team met independently while the committee was struggling, and developed rules they felt were needed for their sport. In some cases, their rules were stricter than those desired by their coaches. They desperately wanted to have a good football program.

They recognized the need for a code of conduct for the team which did not always allow each player "to do his own thing." They respected their coaches and asked only that there be rules, that all the rules be made known, that penalties for breaking the rules be spelled out and that the rules be applied fairly to all members of the team.

Anyone who sat through the rainy Saturday morning of September 30 at the Princeton High School field and saw the faces of these same football players after they had just won their first varsity football game since 1970, had to be impressed with the "rising generation." They had worked hard, after a series of disappointments, and had won. They were proud, and rightfully so.

Some may feel I am looking at the "rising generation" through rose colored glasses. I don't think so. This generation has its problems, just as ours did. I feel confident that most of our children have a firm grip on themselves. While their values may be different than ours, their actions puzzling—even upsetting at times—they are on the up-and-up and will themselves do a great deal to help solve these problems.

Lloyd residents love to have young people around, especially the young voices of the choirs, and the Methodist Cherub Choir will probably be a Christmas visitor. "There is mutual enjoyment between these age-groups," Mrs. Shaw observes, "the children like the 'grandparents,' too."

So Grandmother's house is alive this Thanksgiving season. And if the refreshments are pineapple punch and pink-frosted sheet-cake (Methodist-baked), instead of pumpkin pie and sage dressing (Grandma-baked), the spice and joy of fellowship are just as alive and warm.

Did you know that it is unethical for an appraiser to accept fees for placing certain values on property? That he cannot testify in a damage case when his fee is a percentage of the award? An appraiser cannot own or hold any interest in the property he is appraising. He can't divulge any of the findings of his reports until they are released by his client. His advertising must always be in good taste.

All facets of the services extended by WALTER B. HOWE, INC., 1 Palmer Sq., are in good taste. Call any of our three locations for more information on current real estate listings. YOU WOULDN'T THINK of washing a fine fur coat in water, instead you get it dry cleaned in gentle solvents. Water hurts wood too, so when you want the old finish cleaned off furniture make sure you come to the Wood Shed. Our mild Chem-Clean process uses no water, steam, heat, alkalies or bleaches—just organic solvents much like a dry cleaner's. This means that fine woods, veneer, inlay, rush and metal can be stripped with safety. Glass stays light, grain doesn't rise, patina undamaged. We also have full refinishing facilities. Visit our workshop on Bridge Point Road, off Rt. 206, Montgomery, Two 201-258-2171 or our drop at Windsor Antiques & Interiors, Rt. 130, Hightstown, 609-445-2931. 11-16-71
